Measuring Student Engagement and Performance Online

Activity

Take a look at the “administrative dashboard” of your learning management system (LMS). Click around and find out:

- What information is being collected about each of your students?
- Do you have the option to select what information is and isn’t collected?
- How obvious is it to your students that this information is collected about them?

Reflection

1. What information did you rely on to assess how engaged your students were this spring when you moved to remote learning?
2. How did communicate with your students about classroom expectations? What about parents?
3. How did you factor in considerations of equity and fairness when you used this information to assess your students?
4. How will you answer these questions when school reopens this fall?
